Address to Subscribers.

On the 31st of this month two years will have elapsed since the first appearance of the National Intelligencer.—During this period much has occurred abroad to awaken curiosity, and much at home to excite interest. The intrinsic importance of the events that have occurred has necessarily and properly produced these effects. It had been well for the national character, if other effects, had not accompanied them. Unfortunately for the peace of society, party violence has burst forth with unbridled fury, and threatens to prostrate the brightest talent and purest virtue of the community.

The transfer of power from one set of men, governed by certain political principles, to another set of men guided by different principles has kindled a resentment that prescribes to itself no limits; and too many of our presses, administering to its gratification, are filled with the basest and lowest detraction.

Under these circumstances it becomes the Editor of the National Intelligencer openly and distinctly to assign the rules of his conduct; rules which he has found no reason to abandon, and which it is not probable he will ever relinquish.

Believing the freedom of speech and of the press to be one of the great bulwarks of our liberties, it has been and shall be vigorously sustained. That freedom consists in the temperate discussion of all principles and measures on which the general happiness depends. While on the one hand, it holds no principle too sacred for examination, it forbids all personal slander and vulgar language. The National Intelligencer, therefore, has not, and will not enter into personal warfare with any wretch who by his crimes has abandoned himself to infamy, nor will it, elated with editorial consequence, make the nation the theatre of the petty feuds of hostile prints. Such falsehoods and follies will be left to their own fate. On the contrary detraction will be discountenanced, and the plain language of truth, whenever it shall be thought necessary, shall put down the slanderer.

Believing that our happiness essentially depends upon a republican government, and that such government is alike susceptible of abuse and improvement, whatever increases a love and respect for it whatever tends to destroy its abuses or promises its amelioration shall be admitted.

Believing that the measures of the late administration tended to draw into disrepute the republican system by incorporating numerous and dangerous abuses which were calculated with great rapidity to hurry us into the common vortex of ruined nations, those measures have been held up to public opinion as unworthy of imitation; while the measures of an administration, zealously attached to the republican system, and resolutely bent on keeping this country apart from foreign connection, have been enforced as the offspring of a wise and honest policy.

These measures are well known to the readers of the National Intelligencer, with the arguments urged as well in their opposition as support. Since the establishment of the paper, every document of importance has been given, and the debates of the legislature at a length which, it is believed, is unparralleled. Nor will the malice of party ascribe to them a want of rigid impartiality.

From this exposition, it will be seen that the Editor does not claim an exemption from decided political convictions. However the recluse student may shroud himself in apathy, the citizen of a genuine epublic, in the midst of the political scene, must have little sensibility and less patriotism not to embrace with zeal one side or the other. If he believe the general happiness to depend upon the republican system, if he believe that system to depend upon the unimpaired enjoyment of peace, upon the moderation of taxes, and if he believe that the men now in power will insure these effects, while those in opposition would mar them, can he be indifferent? No fellow citizens, while we are moderate let us be vigilant; while we limit ourselves to truth, let us embrace that truth with zeal; and while we desire the happiness of our opponents, let us take care of our own.

So long as the National Intelligence is conducted on these principles, it may, without presumption, claim the support of the enlightened patriot. That support it already possesses in an eminent degree. But an extended subscription, while it rewarded the Editor, would enable him to improve the plan of the Paper, and to enlarge the sphere of its usefulness. Under this impression, and with this view the Editor requests the person, who shall receive the accompanying specimen papers, to obtain as many subscribers as shall be in his power, on one condition, which experience has proved to be indispensable, the actual payment by each subscriber of five Dollars in advance.

LAND FOR SALE.

The subscriber offers for sale

the tract of Land where he now lives, lying in King George County, on Potomac Creek, containing eleven hundred and ten acres;—This Land is very heavily timbered with all the different kinds of timber common to this climate, and a rich soil. Is bounded by the creek about three quarters of a mile, where the water is from eight to ten feet deep. There is an excellent Rock fishery on it, and at the fishing shore (which is considered a good stand for a store.) There is a store, a dwelling house, kitchen, stable, and corn house, a good garden, &c. About a mile from the Creek is a good dwelling house, containing five rooms, every convenient out-house, a well enclosed yard, garden, &c. at present occupied by the Subscriber. From the situation of this land, the goodness of its soil (which is adapted to the growth of corn, wheat, and tobacco) the quantity of wood it contains, its contiguity to the water, and facility of conveyance to Alexandria and the City of Washington, induces the subscriber to believe that he will meet with a ready sale, as he is determined to ask a moderate price to induce a speedy sale. For terms apply to Daniel C. Brent, Esqr. and Mr. Jeremiah Booth, of the City of Washington or to the Subscriber, or in his absence, to Mr. John Murphy, who lives on the premises.

Miller, Richard W. Ashton, Henry Lawrence, Clement Lawrence, James C. Nielson, and Pierce L. Tanner. Defendants.

THE object of the Bill is to obtain a decree for the sale of the bridge over Potomac river built by, and belonging to the George Town bridge company to raise money to pay a large sum of money due from the said company to sundry persons.

The bill states that these debts amounting to the sum of dols. 16 067 76 principal, besides a large sum for interest thereon, were all contracted for in and about the building of the said bridge, that the accounts have been submitted to the stockholders and that they have approved of the expenditures of these monies and the contracting of this amount of the debt. That the whole monies subscribed by the stockholders for building this bridge have been appropriated and paid away properly and fairly, that this amount of debt still remains unpaid by the company, who though frequently called on, will make no provision for the payment of the same.

The bill further states that Samuel Blodget jun. Thomas L. Moore, James Reid, Hudson & York, John Reid & William Vaughan, Defendants above named, reside in Philadelphia in the commonwealth of Pennsylvania; that Harrison and Sterrett, Charles Carroll, James M'Henry, Charles Wallace, John Muir, William Stewart, Lucia Delbeck, Alexander M'Donald and co. Joseph Hardy, Thomas Charles Clark Benjamin Clark, Martha Clark, Charles Thomas Clark and Ann Maria Clark, Defendants, above named reside in the state of Maryland; That Joseph Covacheche and Dominic Lynch, Defendants above named, reside in the city of New-York: that Farris and Stocker above named reside in the state of Massachusetts, and that Alexander J. Miller, Richard W. Ashton, Henry Lawrence, Clement Lawrence, James C Nielson, & Pierce L. Tanner reside out of the District of Columbia and not within the jurisdiction of this Court, but where they do reside is not known.

It is on the complainants motion ordered that they procure this order to be inserted at least once in six successive weeks in the National Intelligencer and Washington Federalist, before the first day of February next, to the intent that the aforesaid defendants, and all other persons (if any there be) who are interested in the premises, may have notice of the complainants application and of the substance and object of the bill, and that the said defendants and each of them may be warned to appear here in person, or by solicitor, on or before the fourth Monday in July next, to shew cause if any they can, why a decree should not pass as prayed by the said bill.

Valentine Peyton, against
Mary Cook, widow and relict of Joseph Cook deceased, Alexander Stedman and Julia Cook, and Joseph Wilson & Robert Brown, administrators of Joseph Cooke, deceased.

THE object of this bill is to foreclose a Mortgage of two lots, a parcel of ground situated in the City of Washington, given by Joseph Cook deceased, to James R. Dermott, and by the said James R. Dermott assigned to Francis Deakins, deceased, and by the said Francis Deakins assigned to the complainant, Valentine Peyton.

It appears by the return of the Marshal that the defendants are not residents of Columbia, but reside in the state of Pennsylvania—It is thereupon ordered that the complainant cause a copy of the above notification of the object of the Bill to be inserted in the National Intelligencer and Washington Federalist, printed in Washington County, in the said district, during the term of six weeks, warning the defendants to appear in the Circuit Court of the District of Columbia, for the County of Washington, on the sixth day of the ensuing term (December 1802,) to shew cause why a decree should not be passed as prayed by the Bill.
