

alist and was especially fond of conversing on the politics and political history of the country. In politics he was a staunch Republican, and a carpenter and builder by occupation.

1003. EDMUND STRONG ALVORD (Gaius, Gad, Gad, John, Thomas, Alexander), born Granby, Mass., July 6, 1815; died Roseland, N. J., Mar. 9, 1875; married Newark, N. J., May 16, 1859, Mary B. McDougal, daughter of Peter and Nancy (Pierson) McDougal. She was born Springfield, N. J., May 15, 1828; died Roseland, N. J., Feb. 6, 1903. Res. Orange and Roseland, N. J. Occupation farmer. Children:

1893. Henry Clay, b. East Orange, N. J., Sept. 10, 1861; res. Roseland, N. J., 1905; unm.

1894. Adeline, b. Roseland, N. J., Aug. 3, 1865; res. Roseland, N. J., 1905; unm.

1004. GAD WHITE ALVORD (Gaius, Gad, Gad, John, Thomas, Alexander), born Granby, Mass., May 27, 1817; died Erie, Pa., June 12, 1903; married Caldwell, N. J., Aug. 25, 1837, Margaret Bush, daughter of Thomas and Jane (Riggs) Bush. She was born Caldwell, N. J., Feb. 22, 1819; died Painesville, O., Feb. 7, 1902. Res. Orange, N. J.; Bloomfield, N. J.; Concord, O.; Mentor, O.; and Painesville, O. Children:

1895. Thomas Edgar, b. Orange, N. J., July 16, 1838.

1896. Charles Jerome, b. Orange, N. J., Apr. 26, 1841; res. Flint, Mich.,

1897. Harriet Louise, b. Orange, N. J., Nov. 22, 1843. 1905; unm.

1898. Austin Davis, b. Bloomfield, N. J., Apr. 27, 1845.

1899. Horace, b. Bloomfield, N. J., Nov. 10, 1847.

1900. Frances Miller, b. Concord, O., Nov. 7, 1850.

1901. George Wallace, b. Concord, O., Feb. 16, 1855.

1902. Lucy Robinson, b. Mentor, O., Aug. 1, 1857; res. Painesville, O., 1905; unm.

1903. Mary, b. Painesville, O., July 11, 1861.

Gad White Alvord was a man of strong intellectuality, a born lawyer, gifted with a wonderful flow of language, of a keen and discriminating perception in the choice of words to express himself. He was convincing in debate and always carried with him that dignity and reserve which characterized the old style New Englander. Naturally stern, he was of a very forgiving nature. The Bible and Baxter were his almost constant companions.

1005. LUCY ROBINSON ALVORD (Gaius, Gad, Gad, John, Thomas, Alexander), born Granby, Mass., May 2, 1819; died