Abstract: Romy Medeiros da Fonseca Biography: Distinguished lawyer and feminist from Rio de Janeiro, Romy Medeiros da Fonseca (RMF) was the main agent behind various movements that fought for women's rights in Brazil. She was the co-author of the New Statute of the Married Woman in 1962, the intellectual author of the 1977 law allowing couples to divorce, and fought for the rights of women's rights to enlist in the military. RMF became an active agent for individual's rights during Brazil's political process that began in 1964 with the dictatorial government until the country's political transition during the 1980's. She was a member of the United Nations council on issues related to women's rights as well as family planning.

Provenance

This collection originates from Romy Medeiros da Fonseca.

During a trip to Brazil, Dr. Iêda Siqueira Wiarda, the Luso-Brazilian Specialist of the Hispanic Division at the Library of Congress (LC), Washington DC, contacts Dr. Romy Medeiros da Fonseca (RMF), with whom she has a longtime professional relationship.

In 1994, Dr. James H. Billington, Librarian of the Library of Congress, manifests his interest in acquiring the "ten best collections in the world" available for acquisition. Dr. Wiarda sends a list with three possible Brazilian collections to Dr. Georgette Dorn, Chief of the Hispanic Division. Among the three suggestions was the RMF archive.

In March of 1995, after talks between the LC Office in Rio de Janeiro and RMF the transference of her collection to LC is agreed under the condition that a copy of the microfilmed material would be sent to the Brazilian National Library in Rio.

In September 1995, approximately 40 boxes arrive at LC.

In March of 1996, after an initial overview of the material, Vera Cristina Neumann, a volunteer intern in the Hispanic Division, gives suggestions on how to organize the collection.

From 1997 through 2014, volunteer interns of the Hispanic Division, as well as staff worked on the revision and organization of the RMF archive which resulted in 67 boxes containing various documents, biographies, photographs, articles from magazines and newspapers, and scholarly works about the feminist movement in Brazil.
