

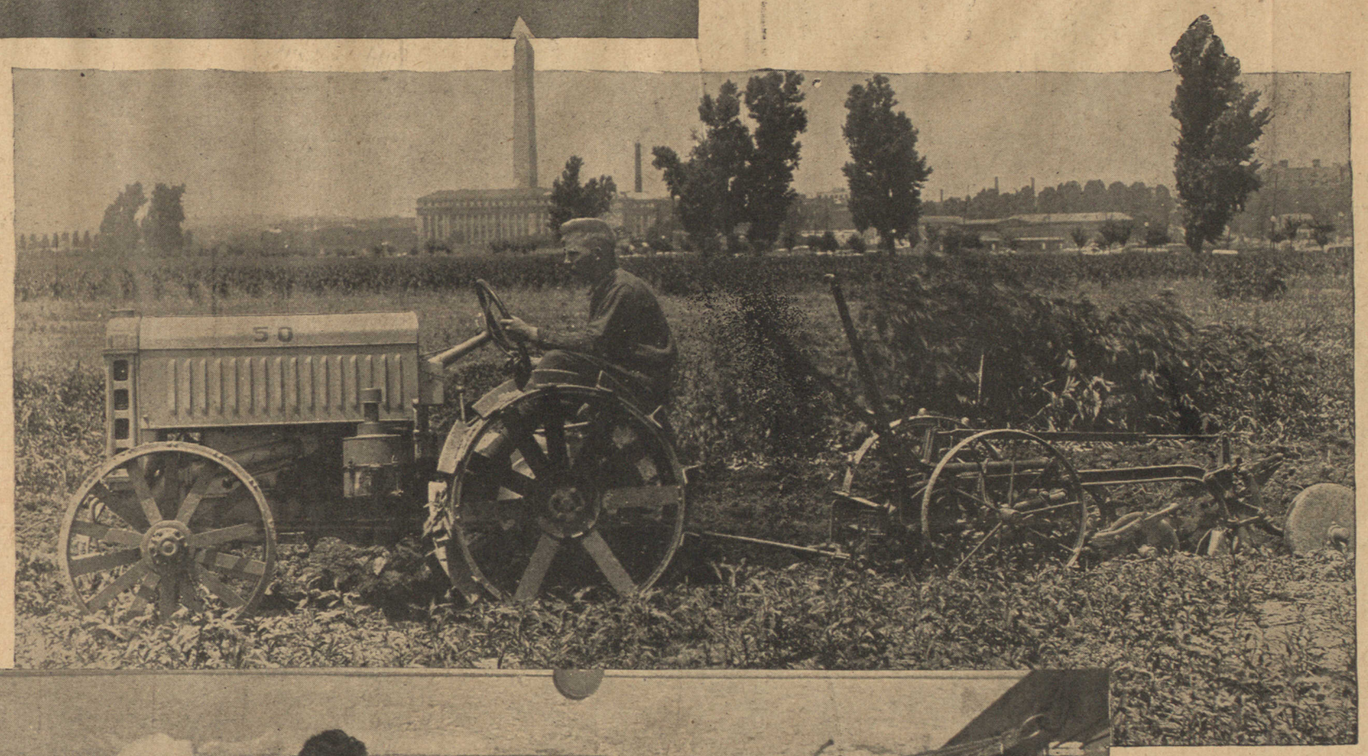
On the left—A truly remarkable and absolutely authentic photograph showing eighteen of the German airplanes that bombed London in their murderous morning raid of July 7th. Flying at a comparatively low altitude the Hun machines were finally beaten off by British airplanes and anti-aircraft guns after killing 37 and wounding 141. The circular picture above is an enlarged section of the main picture. Neither of these photos has been the least bit retouched.

Central News Serv.

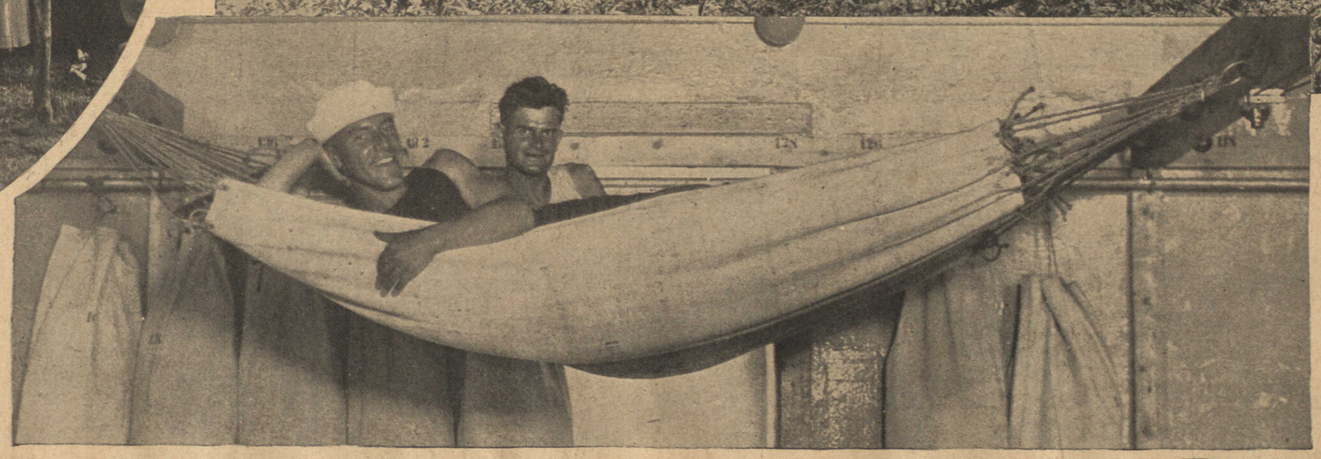
A genuine photograph of Old Glory being paid homage in Berlin—but it was taken several years ago at a military review. How long will it be before we again see it in the German capital?

Paul Thompson



It's serious business when a Jackie falls out of bed. Here are two Jackies making believe they are comfortably happy in their hammocks "somewhere in New London."

Intern. Film



Above — Kenneth Livingstone, son of C. H. Livingstone, president of the Boy Scouts of America, driving a Ford tractor on the Boy Scout Farm in Washington, D. C. "Every scout to feed a soldier" is the Boy Scouts' patriotic slogan.

Photo by G. V. Buck, from Paul Thompson

An unusual photograph of Alexander F. Kerensky, now absolute dictator of New Russia, saluting his troops at a battle front review. Russia's Council of Soldiers' and Workmen's Delegates and Peasants only last week, after an all night session, voted this magnetic young leader unlimited power for the reëstablishment of public order, both at the front and at home.

International Film Serv.