Rehearsing the Burlesque Show

"Heels together!" is none too easy for Bessie Zepp.

With the thermometer at 94 in the shade, "The Gay Morning Glories" are not so very gay.

Musical director trying to get a line on just which girls haven't learned the words.

Mr. Bauman, who owns the show, looking at things in general, and in particular, the pony who was hired with all her clothes on.

Nellie de Long. "The Nordica of Burlesque," making good headway with her part, and a can of beer on the side.

On the side lines—The producer, the young man who does George Cohan's old stuff and the sister act, watch the leading lady telling the comedian where he gets off.

"Gee—my feet are about killin' me!"
