

A group photograph of the mine sweeping squadron of the United States Navy, in charge of Lieutenant Commander Keene, that protects the waters of New York Bay and vicinity should enemy submarines attempt to mine the harbor. American Press

To the left, Mrs. St. Clair Stobart, a major in the Serbian army and the first woman to command a flying field hospital column at the front. Mrs. Stobart arrived in this country last week. She has been in many battles and at one time escaped from the Germans after a death sentence. In the photograph she stands to the left of her companion. Bain News

To the left—The potato chief of our government, L. D. Sweet, a Colorado farmer. He is president of the Potato Association of America and heads the potato division of the Hoover administration. Harris & Ewing, from Paul Thompson

Mrs. Louis F. Slade, chairman of the War Service Committee of the New York City Woman Suffrage party. This committee has already raised $20,000 for Y. M. C. A. units for N. Y. troops. Intern. Film

The newly elected commander in chief of the G. A. R.—Orlando A. Somers, of Kokomo, Indiana. He served throughout the Civil War with an Indiana regiment, and his recent election was unanimous. Intern. Film

The champion woman trap shooter of the country, Mrs. D. J. Dalton, of Indiana, in action at the recent Grand American Handicap tourney in Chicago. Intern. Film

Ten-year-old Lois Ann Curtis, contestant for embroidery honors at the Bergen County Fair, Hohokus, N. J. She has been winning ribbons since she was five years old, and is now the proud possessor of eight. G. Curtis

To the right—Miss Elsie Welsh Salters, who will be married next month to J. T. Munds. Miss Salters is a descendant of the late John Welsh, formerly Ambassador to England. Charlotte Fairchild

On the left, an unusual picture of the Grand Dukes Cyrille and Michel playing golf in France. It is their first visit to a foreign country since the Russian Revolution, and both apparently have no regret at leaving the service of the ex-Czar. Kadel & Herbert

On the right, the five sons of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Strickland, of Houston, Tex., all in the service of their country. Mrs. Strickland, though of direct German descent, has urged her boys to go and fight for their country. Her patriotic spirit is but typical of real American mothers the country over. Underwood & Underwood
