

Left—Anna Wheaton, who sings "Till the Clouds Roll By" and "Nesting Time" in "Oh Boy!" that aristocrat of musical comedies, which, in the midst of its second season, continues to break all popularity records and play to packed houses.

Left—Woman! Cause of all the woe in the world! And when the wicked wind blew "The Scrap of Paper" into the clever fingers of Kirby Rowland (Carroll McComas) she didn't lose her chance—things began doing in the melodramatic mix-up at the Criterion.

Right—Mabel Acker as Julia, one of "Mother Carey's Chickens," in the dramatization of Kate Douglas Wiggin's novel of that name, now running at the Cort, a comedy full of bright, light touches.

Maclyn Arbuckle, as the delightfully satisfying character, John Tarleton, of Tarleton Underwear, it-won't-scratch-the-skin! and Elisabeth Risdon as Hypatia in "Misalliance." One of those moments when the Shavian satire, "If parents only realized how they bore their children, and children how they bore their parents," seemed forgotten.

Left—Mlle. Flore Revalles, prima donna in "Miss 1917," at the Century, the new Dillingham-Ziegfeld Revue, which will out-revue all past productions in talent and costume.

Hathaway

HATHAWAY furniture is characterized by so genuine a grace of line that you are unaccustomed, perhaps, to think of it in terms of moderate prices.

A visit to Hathaway's, however, will convince you that this seeming difficulty of reproducing the work of master designers—in reasonable figures—is more apparent than real.

Here you will find a luxurious profusion of reproductions—such as this 10-piece walnut dining suite at $435.00. It is one of many which combine the authentic lines of olden days with the moderate prices made possible by modern craftsmanship.
